Campaign

The Master Plan for Scripps Memorial Hospital La Jolla

Scripps is here today, and we're invested in being here far into the future. With the launch of our $500 million Here for Good Campaign, which reflects both our trusted century-long legacy in San Diego and our dedication to continued excellence, Scripps is making a lasting investment in the community—now and for generations to come. As a nonprofit health care system, we can't do this alone.

We look to the community for support.

Between now and 2030, we will build the health care system of the future with our patients at the center of all we do. We're here for good—and we'd like you to join us.

Our new hospital tower is expected to open in spring 2025 and will be a mirror image of Prebys Cardiovascular Institute.

Philanthropy is essential to helping Scripps Memorial Hospital La Jolla build a new hospital tower on the campus, part of its master plan for growth during the next decade. The generosity of our donors has been critical to our growth and success through the years, and continued philanthropic support will help make our plans for the future a reality.

Construction is under way on a new, seven-story hospital tower, which includes a dedicated women's center.

New Hospital Tower Adds Innovation and Convenience

With anticipated completion and opening for patient care in 2025, the new, 433,000-square-foot tower will provide a flexible use of space to facilitate changing patient needs and new technologies. It will also feature all private patient rooms, corridors connecting to the Prebys Cardiovascular Institute on multiple floors, and essential enhancements of medical and surgical services. This new tower will include:

- 96 medical/surgical rooms and 12 flex rooms (ICU or med/surg)
- 9 operating rooms (including 2 robotic)
- 40 pre- and post-surgery beds
- 12 medical/surgical observation beds
- Women's center

State-of-the-Art Women's Center

The new tower will also be home to a three-floor dedicated women's center with a post-partum floor featuring all private rooms, sitting alcoves, a nursery overlooking the Prebys rooftop garden and a boutique with items that support a new mother's needs. The labor and delivery floor will incorporate rooms with labor tubs, operating rooms, antepartum rooms and a family waiting area with an outdoor patio. In addition, there will be a new neonatal intensive care unit (NICU) staffed and equipped to provide the latest advances to care for babies with health concerns at birth.

The women's center will include:

- 20 labor and delivery/antepartum rooms
- 38 post-partum rooms
- 18 NICU beds

Spacious, private patient rooms include innovative wireless technology and equipment, in addition to amenities to make the stay as comfortable as possible for patients and family members.

Patient-Centered Care

In keeping with our focus on delivering the right care in the right setting, the plan takes into consideration changing patient-centered health care trends, such as private patient rooms with designated family areas, nurse proximity to patients, and the evolution of wireless technology and advanced equipment.

The new tower also will include a new hospital laboratory, an area for advanced imaging with MRI and CT machines, as well as an interventional radiology suite featuring the latest technology. COVID-19 highlighted the importance of high-quality health care and investments in “smart” facilities and digital technologies. The evolution in technology has led to wireless and other medical advancements that are dramatically improving the efficiency and efficacy of treatments.

To respond to patient needs, nurses stations are within close proximity of patient rooms.

Designated family areas provide convenience for family and friends.

We're here for you. Scripps Memorial Hospital La Jolla will continue to be a premier destination for a full range of patient care needs in a healing environment. Paired with the Prebys Cardiovascular Institute, these towers will define the Scripps La Jolla campus for decades to come.
